Relative clauses

Using:

When we want to give more information about people, animals and things, we often use a relative clause:

We can use that with people, animals and things.

We can use who with people.

We can use which with animals and things.

Examples:

The people who you live with...

Things that you are afraid of...

Something which you have wanted to do...

An animal which you look after...

The film stars that you like...

The girl who is talking on a mobile...

The sport which you play...

A pet which you would like to have...

Exercise 1:

Complete the sentences by who or which:

The woman _____ lives next door is a doctor.

We know many people _____ live in our house.

Where is the apple _____ was on the table?

I like the dog _____ I look after.

The book _____ I bought yesterday is very nice.

I have seen this new film _____ was very sad.

The boy _____ speaks English very well isn't American.
